Curb On UMT Being Taken In Reserves Bill

House Subcommittee Books Hearing On New Military Training Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House subcommittee has taken steps designed to prevent the administration's military reserves plan from becoming a seedbed for Universal Military Training (UMT).

Working on a Pentagon bill to strengthen the reserves, a House Armed Services subcommittee yesterday made tentative changes which Chairman Brooks (D-La.) said show it is not a universal military training measure.

The group has not yet acted finally. Brooks said the bill still is open to amendment. He announced hearings will open Monday to get the views of Pentagon, National Guard and Reserve Officer spokesmen on the revised proposals.

In the main, the subcommittee changes dealt with Pentagon proposals to: Recruit a corps of youths under 19 for six months of intensive training to be followed by a hitch in the reserves; and use compulsion for the first time in getting reservists to keep up their required training.

BROOKS SAID the subcommittee version would provide "the minimum amount of compulsion."

The administration bill spelled out no specific annual quota for the special corps of under-19 trainees. It was this aspect that critics contended could be a loophole through which the program could be expanded into UMT.

Even such a possible loophole, the subcommittee specified a minimum of 100,000 and a maximum of 250,000 such trainees annually. Pentagon spokesmen had said they were thinking in terms of 100,000 a year.

The House group also provided that service in such a corps should be voluntary. It thus rejected a Pentagon proposal to permit drafting trainees if there were not enough volunteers.

The regular draft would continue in effect for most youths between the ages of 18½ and 26.

Under the subcommittee plan, the special trainees would be liable for 7½ years of reserve service after return to civilian life. The Pentagon had asked 9½ years reserve obligation.

As for draftees and regular volunteers, the subcommittee provided that those who refuse to keep up their reserve training can be recalled to active duty for up to 45 days.

Teen-Age Slayer Indifferent As He Faces Death In Chair

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Convicted murderer Kenneth Chapin, 19, remained indifferent today at Hampden County jail as his attorneys pondered their next move to save him from the Massachusetts electric chair.

Chapin, a gangling high school sophomore, was convicted yesterday of the first degree murders of Lynn Ann Smith, 14-year-old baby sitter, and Stephen Goldberg, 4, her charge in the Gold-berg home last Sept. 25.

The youth, who served as a pall bearer at the Smith girl's funeral, was convicted of the slayings by an all-male jury that deliberated just short of four hours.

Lynn Ann was stabbed 38 times and the little Goldberg youngster received 24 knife wounds in an attack that Chapin said "started as a prank."

Chance Seen For Truce In Rail Strike

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—An air of optimism among negotiators meeting here today brought speculation that only a face-saving device is needed to end the 14-south-eastern-state Louisville & Nashville Railroad strike.

Nobody close to the situation expected a final settlement today but there was strong hope the two sides could at least agree on what the issues are, something they haven't been able to do in court.

The strike which began last Monday, affects about 25,000 workmen and has already brought partial industrial paralysis along nearly 5,000 miles of L&N tracks and those of its subsidiaries, the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis and Clinchfield roads.

Tennessee's Gov. Frank Clement, whose invitations brought union and company officials face to face yesterday for the first time since the strike began, said only that talks would be "hopefully continued" today.

Clement's work in arranging the meeting came to a climax as the White House ruled there was no legal basis for reconvening an emergency investigative panel as requested by the governors of Kentucky and Illinois.

The board's recommendations were the basis for agreements between the unions and 90 per cent of the nation's railroads. L&N withdrew, however, saying it had a better and cheaper health and welfare plan than the national agreement provided.

2 Wilmingtonians Killed In Mishap

WILMINGTON (AP)—Two men were killed last night in a one-car accident on Ohio 134 in Clinton County just north of the Highland County line.

The state highway patrol identified the dead as Arnold Hosier, 29, the driver, and James Wallace, 25, both of Wilmington.

Reds Frown On Flower Pot Signals, But OK Use Of Onion Juice As Ink

SEATTLE (AP)—Communist party big shot frown on using flower pots for window signals (the cops are wise) but they recommend the use of onion juice and water for writing secret messages.

This and a lot of other cloak and dagger information was gleaned from a handbook which the House Un-American Activities subcommittee obtained from a witness yesterday.

The manual, part of a collection of hundreds of documents stuffed into four cartons, was supplied by Eugene Dennett, steelworker and former Communist official testifying at hearings the subcommittee is conducting here.

Dennett had the records because he ignored orders from the party to destroy them when they read him out of membership in 1947 for "deviationist Trotskyism."

Frank S. Tavenner Jr., committee counsel, said the records are the most voluminous ever turned over to the committee by a former Communist.

He said the handbook, written by B. Vassiliev, a former Communist strategist, goes much more into detail of Communist party mechanics and "is much plainer in its purposes" than anything else in committee files.

Not only were the cops wise to the flower pots, Vassiliev wrote, they were even doublecrossing the Communists by putting pots in the windows themselves.

Comrades were instructed to use "the latest inventions of chemistry" in writing messages not intended for bourgeois eyes. But if the chemicals weren't handy, mix onion juice and water, they were advised.

Cafes also were looked upon as bad places for meetings. "There always are spies in cafes and in countless numbers and it is difficult to get rid of them."

An ordinary, indistinctive flat was recommended, instead. Pass-words for getting into that flat were mandatory and of varying complexity as an official's rank increased.

Rank and file members got through the door with simple passwords. District workers had to learn a more complicated routine. And central workers, they really had to know the answers. A member who could ask and respond to three questions could be "addressed with full frankness."

Codes were specified, too ranging from ordinary word juggling to real mysterious stuff about book pages and poetry.

For instance, "auntie" was a printing press and "sugar" was type. If "auntie asks without fail to send her 20 pounds of sugar," you knew "we need 20 pounds of type for the printing press."

There were instructions for infiltration of unions, industrial enterprises and professions like law, medicine and education.

Stock Market Probe Fizzles

Dems, GOP Each Rap Other For 'Politics'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The warring factions in the Senate stock market inquiry voiced agreement on two things today: That the inquiry is something of a fizzle and that politics is responsible.

Each side blamed the other for injecting politics into the public hearings, now in recess for the weekend. They resume Monday with Board Chairman Benjamin Fairless of the U. S. Steel Corp. as the witness.

Chairman Fulbright (D-Ark) of the Senate Banking Committee said he has no doubt the "friendly study" of market conditions will fall short of the hopes he had for it—hopes that it would inform the country about stock market conditions and maybe shore up some weaknesses.

Fulbright said the Eisenhower administration has made it plain there will be no change in its economic policies even if the inquiry points to a need for change.

THE ARKANSAS senator said public reaction to the inquiry undoubtedly will be dampened, too, by "the fact that the Republicans have pinned a partisan label on it. I wouldn't say the inquiry has been wrecked, but its effectiveness certainly has been diminished by the injection of partisan politics."

The committee's ranking Republican, Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.), took an even more bearish view of the inquiry. He said it has done no good, probably has done harm by scaring investors unnecessarily, and ought to be called off.

"It is perfectly plain," Capehart said, "that we have been seeing in operation a Democratic plan to discredit the administration and impair confidence in the country's economy."

U.S. OKs Entry Of 20 Russians

Seaman Deserters Get Special Consideration

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has decided to grant asylum to some 20 Russian seamen who deserted their ship after it was seized off Formosa by Chinese Nationalists.

Atty. Gen. Brownell, it was learned, is ready to lift present immigration barriers and rule it is in the national interest to admit the men.

The action, however, is virtually certain to provoke a hot protest from Russia which has been demanding return of the men along with their ship.

The deserters are part of a 48-man crew captured last June 23 by Nationalist destroyers along with their ship, the tanker Tuapse, as it sailed for Red China.

It is understood that the Tuapse along with the 28 crewmen who have chosen to stick to their ship will be turned over to Soviet authorities within a few weeks. The ship and all crewmen are now in Chinese Nationalist custody.

Under an asylum plan now being developed, the crewmen will be screened rigorously to make certain no diehard Communists and security risks are permitted to enter the United States.

SECRETARY of State Dulles is reported to have favored admitting the seamen. With cold war repercussions in mind, he felt accepting the seamen would encourage other Soviet sailors to defect and would tend to make Moscow jittery about the loyalty of its ship crews.

Brownell has the right to waive restrictions barring Communists when he believes it would serve the government's interests.

Last fall, 22 Polish seamen were allowed to enter the United States after their ships also were captured by the Nationalists.

3 Are Killed In Atom Area Auto Crash

WAVERLY (AP)—There was a sudden "cloud of dust," a witness said, and when the air cleared three people were found dead, victims of an early morning head-on collision on U. S. 23.

The dead were identified as Earl F. Taylor, 48, of Rt. 1, Piketon, driver of one car; Donald E. Smith, 23, of Washington C. H., and Marilyn L. Drake, 21, of Rt. 1, Londonderry, a passenger in the car Smith was driving.

The state highway patrol said Taylor was traveling north in a southbound lane of the new four-lane highway running through the atomic plant area.

Oliver Horn of Columbus, the driver behind Smith, said suddenly he "saw a cloud of dust" as the cars rammed into one another headon. The accident occurred two miles south of Waverly about 3 a. m.

Horn said he saw no oncoming lights and jammed on his brakes only when the sudden cloud of dust burst across the road in front of him.

Airing Sought On Potsdam And Tehran

Sen. Knowland To Press For Reversal Of State Department Hush-Hush

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said today he will press for publication within a year of official reports on the wartime Tehran and Potsdam conferences.

Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, said that so far as he is concerned it is "purely coincidental" that reports of these meetings of Democratic presidents with Russia's Joseph Stalin may become public as the 1956 presidential campaign is getting underway.

State Department officials said yesterday that world reaction to disclosure to the Yalta conference report has caused abandonment of plans to publish reports of the Potsdam, Tehran and Cairo conferences this year. The Russians were not represented at Cairo.

Knowland indicated he will demand the decision be reversed, and predicted the additional reports will be published by next year.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said he believes the political impact of the Yalta record has been a "dud" so far as the Republicans are concerned. As for the Tehran and Potsdam papers, he said: "Let them come."

THE TEHRAN conference in November and December, 1943, was the first meeting between Franklin D. Roosevelt, Winston Churchill and Stalin. It dealt largely with plans for a second front in Europe, pledged the postwar recall of occupation troops in Iran and oversaw the arming of Yugoslav guerrillas.

It was at Potsdam in July and August of 1945 that former President Truman first met with Churchill (later replaced by Clement Attlee) and Stalin. Japanese surrender terms were agreed upon, as well as plans for the administration of Germany.

The State Department said yes—(Continued on Page Two)

April Labeled Conservation Month In Ohio

COLUMBUS — Gov. Frank J. Lausche has proclaimed the month of April as Conservation Month in Ohio.

The governor, as has been his custom in the last few years, called for particular emphasis on the planting of trees during the month-long observance.

He called upon all civic, religious, governmental, and fraternal organizations, conservation clubs, youth groups and individual citizens of Ohio to assume leadership for the planting of trees during the month "as a contribution to the comfort, well being, economy and pleasure of future generations in Ohio."

The governor said, "Direct action is necessary if we are to maintain and restore our rapidly disappearing forests and cope with this threat to Ohio's future welfare and economy."

He added that, "the moral responsibility for a successful conservation and reforestation program is individual to every citizen of Ohio, as well as to groups, and every citizen should take an active part in planting trees during this observance of Conservation Month."

Many statewide organizations are planning to launch their annual "Plant Ohio" campaigns and programs during April in conjunction with Conservation Month.

Teen-Age Slayer Indifferent As He Faces Death In Chair

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Convicted murderer Kenneth Chapin, 19, remained indifferent today at Hampden County jail as his attorneys pondered their next move to save him from the Massachusetts electric chair.

Chapin, a gangling high school sophomore, was convicted yesterday of the first degree murders of Lynn Ann Smith, 14-year-old baby sitter, and Stephen Goldberg, 4, her charge in the Goldberg home last Sept. 25.

The youth, who served as a pall bearer at the Smith girl's funeral, was convicted of the slayings by an all-male jury that deliberated just short of four hours.

Lynn Ann was stabbed 38 times and the little Goldberg youngster received 24 knife wounds in an attack that Chapin said "started as a prank."

Judge Charles Fairhurst, after passing sentence, deferred execution indefinitely to give defense counsel time to file appeals, but last night Chapin's attorneys said, "we don't know what our next step will be."

THROUGHOUT the 11-day trial Chapin appeared completely disinterested as defense attorneys sought vainly to prove Chapin was insane at the time of the slaying.

Chapin stood alert while the jury announced its verdict. He stared straight ahead while the judge imposed the sentence that may make him one of the youngest convicts to die in the Massachusetts chair.

The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Chapin, listened intently as the jurors made known their verdict. His mother sobbed quietly and the father sat dazed.

Chapin was the second Bay State teen-ager convicted of murder within 24 hours. Thursday, Peter Makarewicz, 16, of Norwood, was convicted of the strangling slaying of a 15-year-old girl and sentenced to life imprisonment. He escaped the death penalty when the jury recommended mercy.

During the defense summation Chapin remained stony-faced as he heard his counsel call him a "bestial animal" and "a boy who obviously performed a horrible crime."

Nor did he flinch when Dist. Atty. Stephen A. Moynahan castigated him as "murdering with extreme atrocity and cruelty."

Paris Premier Compromises On Pact Issue

PARIS (AP)—Anxious to assure passage of the German rearmament pact, Premier Edgar Faure made a compromise agreement today with parliamentary backers of a controversial tax relief issue.

At one time during the heated post midnight debate on the tax-dodger issue, Faure appeared certain to be defeated.

The premier had warned the Assembly he would resign if defeated on a vote on the motion calling for suppression of penalties against tax dodgers.

Finally the authors of the motion agreed to withdraw their proposal for the time being. In return Faure agreed to present to the Assembly March 28 an outline of tax reforms which he hopes will satisfy the demands of the small business man.

Faure tried to avert a showdown Thursday by agreeing to withdraw his request for extensive special economic powers. But that was not enough to still unrest in the Assembly and he had to give further ground today.

Faure made it clear he was giving in only because he considered Senate ratification of the Paris treaties the most important issue facing Parliament. He told the deputies a new government crisis would cause further delay and asserted the world would not forgive any further French procrastination on German rearmament.

Upturn Seen Only Dent In Stock Prices

WASHINGTON (AP)—The market choked off a major reaction this week and launched a recovery drive.

The reaction, great as it was, still made only a dent in the sustained bull market rise that started 18 months ago.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 70 cents on the week and closed at $156.10.

Two weeks ago today, the average stood at an historic high. Then it fell away around seven percent in a six-session reaction. The recovery drive in the final four days of this week retraced 41 percent of that loss.

What caused it all? In Washington, Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) made a detailed effort to show that his study of stock market conditions had nothing to do with the stock market's action.

Harry D. Comer of the New York Stock Exchange member firm of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis in his semimonthly review of the stock market commented:

"Whether warranted or not, this month's steep drop in the stock market seems bound to be dubbed 'the Fulbright break' by market historians. Despite the abruptness of this reaction, it is still of minor proportions and can be regarded as but the beginning of a major downturn."

More and more brokers are inclining to the theory that the fall was a technical reaction long due.

Springfield To Get New Housing Area

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The Springfield area will get a new 2,000-unit housing project and a new water plant to service it, according to plans announced yesterday.

Contractor L. Edwin Hoppes of Springfield said he plans to start work this year on the housing development in an area two miles north of the city. He predicted its potential population would be 10,000. The Clark County Commission proposed the $70,000 waterworks which the commission said might attract industry to the area.

U.S. OKs Entry Of 20 Russians

Seaman Deserters Get Special Consideration

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has decided to grant asylum to some 20 Russian seamen who deserted their ship after it was seized off Formosa by Chinese Nationalists.

Atty. Gen. Brownell, it was learned, is ready to lift present immigration barriers and rule it is in the national interest to admit the men.

The action, however, is virtually certain to provoke a hot protest from Russia which has been demanding return of the men along with their ship.

The defectors are part of a 48-man crew captured last June 23 by Nationalist destroyers along with their ship, the tanker Tuapse, as it sailed for Red China.

It is understood that the Tuapse along with the 28 crewmen who have chosen to stick to their ship will be turned over to Soviet authorities within a few weeks. The ship and all crewmen are now in Chinese Nationalist custody.

Under an asylum plan now being developed, the crewmen will be screened rigorously to make certain no diehard Communists and security risks are permitted to enter the United States.

SECRETARY of State Dulles is reported to have favored admitting the seamen. With cold war repercussions in mind, he felt accepting the seamen would encourage other Soviet sailors to defect and would tend to make Moscow jittery about the loyalty of its ship crews.

Brownell has the right to waive restrictions barring Communists when he believes it would serve the government's interests.

Last fall, 22 Polish seamen were allowed to enter the United States after their ships also were captured by the Nationalists.

3 Are Killed In Atom Area Auto Crash

WAVERLY (AP)—There was a sudden "cloud of dust," a witness said, and when the air cleared three people were found dead, victims of an early morning head-on collision on U. S. 23.

The dead were identified as Earl F. Taylor, 48, of Rt. 1, Picketon, driver of one car; Donald E. Smith, 23, of Washington C. H., and Marilyn L. Drake, 21, of Rt. 1, Londonderry, a passenger in the car Smith was driving.

The state highway patrol said Taylor was traveling north in a southbound lane of the new four-lane highway running through the atomic plant area.

Oliver Horn of Columbus, the driver behind Smith, said suddenly he "saw a cloud of dust" as the cars rammed into one another head-on. The accident occurred two miles south of Waverly about 3 a. m.

Horn said he saw no oncoming lights and jammed on his brakes only when the sudden cloud of dust burst across the road in front of him.

Airing Sought On Potsdam And Tehran

Sen. Knowland To Press For Reversal Of State Department Hush-Hush

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said today he will press for publication within a year of official reports on the wartime Tehran and Potsdam conferences.

Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, said that so far as he is concerned it is "purely coincidental" that reports of these meetings of Democratic presidents with Russia's Joseph Stalin may become public as the 1956 presidential campaign is getting underway.

State Department officials said yesterday that world reaction to disclosure to the Yalta conference report has caused abandonment of plans to publish reports of the Potsdam, Tehran and Cairo conferences this year. The Russians were not represented at Cairo.

Knowland indicated he will demand the decision be reversed, and predicted the additional reports will be published by next year.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said he believes the political impact of the Yalta record has been a "dud" so far as the Republicans are concerned. As for the Tehran and Potsdam papers, he said: "Let them come."

THE TEHRAN conference in November and December, 1943, was the first meeting between Franklin D. Roosevelt, Winston Churchill and Stalin. It dealt largely with plans for a second front in Europe, pledged the postwar recall of occupation troops in Iran and underwrote the arming of Yugoslav guerrillas.

It was at Potsdam in July and August of 1945 that former President Truman first met with Churchill (later replaced by Clement Attlee) and Stalin. Japanese surrender terms were agreed upon, as well as plans for the administration of Germany.

The State Department said yes—(Continued on Page Two)

April Labeled Conservation Month In Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche has proclaimed the month of April as Conservation Month in Ohio.

The governor, as has been his custom in the last few years, called for particular emphasis on the planting of trees during the month-long observance.

He called upon all civic, religious, governmental, and fraternal organizations, conservation clubs, youth groups and individual citizens of Ohio to assume leadership for the planting of trees during the month "as a contribution to the comfort, well being, economy and pleasure of future generations in Ohio."

The governor said, "Direct action is necessary if we are to maintain and restore our rapidly disappearing forests and cope with this threat to Ohio's future welfare and economy."

He added that, "the moral responsibility for a successful conservation and reforestation program is individual to every citizen of Ohio, as well as to groups, and every citizen should take an active part in planting trees during this observance of Conservation Month."

Many statewide organizations are planning to launch their annual "Plant Ohio" campaigns and programs during April in conjunction with Conservation Month.

State Revenue Estimates Seen Aid To Lausche

Indications Pointing To No Slashing Job By Legislators On Budget

COLUMBUS (AP)—Differences in state revenue estimates by Ohio House and Senate leaders currently are playing into the hands of Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

The five-term Democrat is making the most of it but Republicans wonder if he may get burned.

GOP lawmakers usually give Lausche's two-year state operating budget a mauling. But this session of the Legislature could prove an exception.

Not that the General Assembly won't alter Lausche's program for running the state in the biennium starting July 1. That's bound to occur.

But leaders indicate changes may be more limited this session and that appropriations probably won't exceed Lausche's record 931½-million-dollar requests.

Principal reason lies in the higher revenue estimates submitted by Finance Director John M. Wilcoxon, who took over the late H. D. Defenbacher's job.

Wilcoxon said he approached the state's fiscal problem in the same way that a family head goes about budgeting his finances.

Wilcoxon insists his figures represent what the state can reasonably expect to take in during the next two years. He pared appropriation requests accordingly and dipped into the state's surplus for nearly 10 million dollars to make things come out even.

The unusual expedient of using surplus for operating needs blew up a storm, but Lausche stood pat. He said that was the only way to meet necessary expenses without new taxes.

And new taxes are anathema to the governor and most legislators alike this session.

Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem (R-Athens) promptly claimed the governor's estimate of sales tax revenues again are too low this time by some 10 million dollars.

Mechem repeatedly has claimed in past sessions that Lausche intentionally underestimated revenues in order to build surpluses for capital improvements. The current surplus is estimated at 50 millions. It has been higher in the past.

But House leaders refused to go along with Mechem this time.

House Speaker Roger Cloud (R-Logan) and Rep. J. Frank McClure (R-Ashland), House Finance Committee chairman, looked askance at budget figures.

They claim tax estimates hit the maximum that can be expected. That would leave nothing for normal building replacements, they claim.

"It is reasonable to assume," they said, "that a fiscal program extended into the future, as outlined by the 1955-57 budget, will find the state moving backwards in the field of normal building improvements and replacements at the rate of 20 million dollars a year."

Lausche promptly seized upon Senate-House differences.

"Based upon the conflicting position taken respectively by the leaders of the Senate and of the House," the governor said, "I am convinced that the budget is neither overly conservative nor overly liberal."

"On the one hand, leaders of the Senate have attacked the budget, claiming that the estimated revenues are too low; on the other, leaders of the House claim that the estimate of revenue is too high."

"If the Legislature will follow my request and pass no laws requiring the expenditure of new money, the financial position of the state will be sound."

"The recommended budget and the suggestions contained in my messages that there be no new expenditures and no new taxes, if followed, will be a real service to our state and its people."

"I see signs, however, of a purpose by certain legislators to substantially increase the expenditures which I recommended. If that is done, it will be a mistake."

McClure recalled that new spending proposals, exclusive of salary increases, totaled more than 385 millions. He expressed concern over willingness of some lawmakers to spend state money from taxpayers and asserted new taxes would result.

Motorscooters To Be Checked By City Police

A crackdown on motorscooter owners has been announced by Police Chief Elmer Merriman.

The chief declared that city police will begin checking for drivers' licenses. He pointed out that licenses for motorscooters are not much different from regular licenses.

Pickaway County Probate Judge Guy Cline has pledged cooperation in the drive. He said that each case brought before him will be judged on individual merit.

Judge Cline pointed out that parents are liable for fines incurred by teenagers. He said that even though the parent may be the owner, the driver must have a license.

CHIEF MERRIMAN explained that motorscooter drivers are expected to observe the same rules as motorists. That is, they are supposed to signal on turns, allow pedestrians the right of way, obey stop signs, etc.

The chief also said that motorscooters must have front and rear lights if they are to be driven after dark. He said he has already noted a number of violations.

Both Judge Cline and Chief Merriman join in warning parents that they will be held responsible for their youngsters' actions.

Honestly-what we're going to tell you came from outside sources and is definitely not first-hand information. We're going to visit the women's department of a long-time-ago general store.

Did you know that it was very nearly against the law-certainly it was contrary to social conventions in early days for merchants to display in full view such things as elastic and fancy buckies for garters, hair curlers, rats, switches, corset laces and stays, face powder, brassieres, panties, slips, and the seductive colognes and perfumes such as "Bow Wow", "Sensible", "Home Sweet Home", "Boudoir", "Duchess Ladies" and "Bridal Bouquet". They say the most popular brand was called "Hoyt's 5-Center".

Styles of shoes and stockings were constantly changing and many a storekeeper nearly lost a year's profit by overstocking certain faddish items. We notice that one of the early writers spoke of women's stockings as then having the appearance of those made for the inmates of the State Reformatory.

At one time it was the fashion to have stripes running up or around or in spirals, and later to have designs embroidered on them, such as the American Flag, or the great seal of the United States or maybe the wearer's own initial in classic Roman.

WHY ALL of this, we haven't the least idea—certainly the "sweeping" long skirts permitted no showing even of the ankle, let alone anything else.

The shoe styles, too, were quite changeable. One year it was the acme of fashion for flat heels and broad toes and maybe followed by the highest of heels, needle-pointed toes and buttoned or laced high tops which went half-way up the leg—we should have said "protests and strengths the nether extremities".

And weren't the hats something those days? Take a look at some of the old pictures—we believe you'll get a kick out of it. However, we admit, the men's were just as screwy-looking. A n yway—the very fancy women's hats were veritable gardens and could be changed and made to look like a new hat in a moment by simply rearranging the planting plan.

Then came the feathers—egret, ostrich and the like—even the family rooster contributed his bit toward millinery lavishment. Remember the fancy hat pins—some even vicious looking? Many provided a place for a loved one's picture and some even had a mirror and powder puff in the head.

Then came the chapeau, a kinda Roman helmet effect, worn soaked down over the eyes and over the back neck line—so you couldn't tell whether Juno was approaching or leaving you.

It appears that to be in style—even as today—you had to be dissatisfied with what nature provided and make something out of yourself that you just wasn't. We've had to resort to the bibliography of those days, the Delineator, to provide the historical facts about the intimate fashions of those days.

IT APPEARS that proper "foundation" was a first requirement. Corsets came in all styles and with many trade names. Our storekeeper could only stock a few of the brands and sizes, so many of the problems were ironed out by ordering from illustrations and the conforming specifications.

It was unthinkable for any girl over fifteen to be seen in public unless girded in proper manner. Even the youngsters who should have been free and unhampered, were bound with mild supports such as the "Darling" or the "Little Pet" or the most expensive one "Young Ladies' Beauty".

Now some of the older sisters, who hoped to create a coquettish atmosphere, came out in the open, bound in something a little more alluring, such as "La Sprite", or "Cousin Jane", or "Daisy", or "Talk of the Town" or "Anne" or maybe it was a "Primrose Path" model.

Some of the older folks, who had more problems, had to resort to binders, reinforced with steel stays, built in catvats and gallow webbing. These were two-piece numbers—pulled together in front and rear with laces, guaranteed for maximum strength and for absolute rigidity. There were no Good Housekeeping seals of approval those days, so far as we know, but from their general acceptance, we assume that the "Queen Victoria", the "W.C.P." and the "Admiral Dewey" must have met all tests to which they might have been subjected.

Now the women generally depended on the men folks to look after the medicine shelf properly stocked, but there was one item, which definitely required personal attention, because with the purchase of each bottle of the nostrum went free diagnostic and sympathetic advice.

Can't you imagine many feminine faces would have been quite rosy had they known it was a fellow by the name of James T. Wetherald, who was receiving and answering their inquiries? Yes—the motherly Lydia E. Pinkham died on May 17, 1883.

terday that previously secret wartime documents on American relations with China also will be published. The Truman administration published a 1,000-word "white paper" defending U. S. policy toward China, which had been under political attack by many Republicans.

Knowland said publication of the record of the Tehran and Potsdam conferences, as well as the China documents, was covered in the same appropriation under which the State Department was given money to print the controversial Yalta papers.

He said he concurs "fully" with the statement of Secretary of State Dulles in Ottawa, Canada, yesterday that publication of the Yalta record will not make diplomacy among the free nations more difficult.

However, Sparkman said he thinks the disclosures in them, particularly what he called "side remarks" by the principals, might have a "disturbing effect on international relations."

DULLES SAID he sees no trouble arising out of publication of the Yalta papers. He said the documents were published in the normal course of proceedings of the State Department which periodically published records of diplomatic events.

He said all the essential facts of the Yalta conference were already known through the books of Prime Minister Churchill and former U. S. State Secretaries Byrnes and Stettinius.

"I doubt that a fourth publication will do any more harm than the preceding three," Dulles said.

State Revenue Estimates Seen Aid To Lausche

Indications Pointing To No Slashing Job By Legislators On Budget

COLUMBUS (AP) — Differences in state revenue estimates by Ohio House and Senate leaders currently are playing into the hands of Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

The five-term Democrat is making the most of it but Republicans wonder if he may get burned.

GOP lawmakers usually give Lausche's two-year state operating budget a mauling. But this session of the Legislature could prove an exception.

Not that the General Assembly won't alter Lausche's program for running the state in the biennium starting July 1. That's bound to occur.

But leaders indicate changes may be more limited this session and that appropriations probably won't exceed Lausche's record $31½-million-dollar requests.

Principal reason lies in the higher revenue estimates submitted by Finance Director John M. Wilcoxon, who took over the late H. D. Defenbacher's job.

Wilcoxon said he approached the state's fiscal problem in the same way that a family head goes about budgeting his finances.

Wilcoxon insists his figures represent what the state can reasonably expect to take in during the next two years. He pared appropriation requests accordingly and dipped into the state's surplus for nearly 10 million dollars to make things come out even.

The unusual expedient of using surplus for operating needs blew up a storm, but Lausche stood pat. He said that was the only way to meet necessary expenses without new taxes.

And new taxes are anathema to the governor and most legislators alike this session.

Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem (R-Athens) promptly claimed the governor's estimate of sales tax revenues again are too low, this time by some 10 million dollars.

Mechem repeatedly has claimed in past sessions that Lausche intentionally underestimated revenues in order to build surpluses for capital improvements. The current surplus is estimated at 50 millions. It has been higher in the past.

But House leaders refused to go along with Mechem this time.

House Speaker Roger Clode (R-Logan) and Rep. J. Frank McClure (R-Ashtand), House Finance Committee chairman, looked askance at budget figures.

They claim tax estimates hit the maximum that can be expected. That would leave nothing for normal building replacements, they claim.

"It is reasonable to assume," they said, "that a fiscal program extended into the future, as outlined by the 1955-57 budget, will find the state moving backwards in the field of normal building improvements and replacements at the rate of 20 million dollars a year."

Lausche promptly seized upon Senate-House differences.

"Based upon the conflicting position taken respectively by the leaders of the Senate and of the House," the governor said, "I am convinced that the budget is neither overly conservative nor overly liberal."

"On the one hand, leaders of the Senate have attacked the budget, claiming that the estimated revenues are too low; on the other, leaders of the House claim that the estimate of revenue is too high."

"If the Legislature will follow my request and pass no laws requiring the expenditure of new monies, the financial position of the state will be sound."

"The recommended budget and the suggestions contained in my messages that there be no new expenditures and no new taxes, if followed, will be a real service to our state and its people."

"I see signs, however, of a purpose by certain legislators to substantially increase the expenditures which I recommended. If that is done, it will be a mistake."

McClure recalled that new spending proposals, exclusive of salary increases, totaled more than $85 millions. He expressed concern over willingness of some lawmakers to spend state money from taxpayers and asserted new taxes would result.

Motorscooters To Be Checked By City Police

A crackdown on motorscooter owners has been announced by Police Chief Elmer Merriman.

The chief declared that city police will begin checking for drivers' licenses. He pointed out that licenses for motorscooters are not much different from regular licenses.

Pickaway County Probate Judge Guy Cline has pledged cooperation in the drive. He said that each case brought before him will be judged on individual merit.

Judge Cline pointed out that parents are liable for fines incurred by teenagers. He said that even though the parent may be the owner, the driver must have a license.

CHIEF MERRIMAN explained that motorscooter drivers are expected to observe the same rules as motorists. That is, they are supposed to signal on turns, allow pedestrians the right of way, obey stop signs, etc.

The chief also said that motorscooters must have front and rear lights if they are to be driven after dark. He said he has already noted a number of violations.

Both Judge Cline and Chief Merriman join in warning parents that they will be held responsible for their youngsters' actions.

Roundtown Retrospect

By Mac Noggle

Honestly-what we're going to tell you came from outside sources and is definitely not first-hand information. We're going to visit the women's department of a long-time-ago general store.

Did you know that it was very nearly against the law-certainly it was contrary to social conventions in early days for merchants to display in full view such things as elastic and fancy buckles for garters, hair curlers, rats, switches, corset laces and stays, face powder, brassieres, panties, slips, and the seductive colognes and perfumes such as "Bow Wow", "Sensible", "Home Sweet Home", "Boudoir", "Duchess Ladies" and "Bridal Bouquet". They say the most popular brand was called "Hoyt's 5-Center".

Styles of shoes and stockings were constantly changing and many a storekeeper nearly lost a year's profit by overstocking certain faddish items. We notice that one of the early writers spoke of women's stockings as then having the appearance of those made for the inmates of the State Reformatory.

At one time it was the fashion to have stripes running up or around or in spirals, and later to have designs embroidered on them, such as the American Flag, or the great seal of the United States or maybe the wearer's own initial in classic Roman.

WHY ALL of this, we haven't the least idea—certainly the "sweeping" long skirts permitted no showing even of the ankle, let alone any thing else.

The shoe styles, too, were quite changeable. One year it was the acme of fashion for flat heels and broad toes and maybe followed by the highest of heels, needle-pointed toes and buttoned or laced high tops which went half-way up the leg—we should have said "protests" and strengthens the nether extremities.

And weren't the hats something those days? Take a look at some of the old pictures—we believe you'll get a kick out of it. However, we admit, the men's were just as screwy-looking. A n yway—the very fancy women's hats were veritable gardens and could be changed and made to look like a new hat in a moment by simply rearranging the planting plan.

Then came the feathers—egret, ostrich and the like—even the family rooster contributed his bit toward millinery lavishness. Remember the fancy hat pin—some even vicious looking? Many provided a place for a loved one's picture and some even had a mirror and powder puff in the head.

Then came the chapeau, a kind of Roman helmet effect, worn socked down over the eyes and over the back neck line—so you couldn't tell whether Juno was approaching or leaving you.

It appears that to be in style—even as today—you had to be dissatisfied with what nature provided and make something out of yourself that you just wasn't. We've had to resort to the bibliography of those days, the Delineator, to provide the historical facts about the intimate fashions of those days.

IT APPEARS that proper "foundation" was a first requirement. Corsets came in all styles and with many trade names. Our storekeepers could only stock a few of the brands and sizes, so many of the problems were ironed out by ordering from illustrations and the conforming specifications.

It was unthinkable for any girl over fifteen to be seen in public unless girded in proper manner. Even the youngsters who should have been free and unhampered, were bound with mild supports such as the "Darling" or the "Little Pet" or the most expensive one "Young Ladies' Beauty".

Now some of the older sisters, who hoped to create a coquettish atmosphere, came out in the open, bound in something a little more alluring, such as "La Sprite", or "Cousin Jane", or "Daisy", or "Talk of the Town" or "Anne" or maybe it was a "Primrose Path" model.

Some of the older folks, who had more problems, had to resort to binders, reinforced with steel stays, built in canvas and galloon webbing. These were two-piece numbers—pulled together in front and rear with laces, guaranteed for maximum strength and for absolute rigidity. There were no Good Housekeeping seals of approval those days, so far as we know, but from their general acceptance, we assume that the "Queen Victoria", the "W.C.P." and the "Admiral Dewey" must have met all tests to which they might have been subjected.

Now the women generally depended on the men folks to look after the medicine shelf properly stocked, but there was one item, which definitely required personal attention, because with the purchase of each bottle of the nostrum went free diagnostic and sympathetic advice.

Can't you imagine many feminine faces would have been quite rosy had they known it was a fellow by the name of James T. Wetherald, who was receiving and answering their inquiries? Yes—the motherly Lydia E. Pinkham died on May 17, 1883.

Airing Sought On Potsdam And Tehran

terday that previously secret wartime documents on American relations with China also will be published. The Truman administration published a 1,600-word "white paper" defending U. S. policy toward China, which had been under political attack by many Republicans.

Knowland said publication of the record of the Tehran and Potsdam conferences, as well as the China documents, was covered in the same appropriation under which the State Department was given money to print the controversial Yalta papers.

He said he concurs "fully" with the statement of Secretary of State Dulles in Ottawa, Canada, yesterday that publication of the Yalta record will not make diplomacy among the free nations more difficult.

However, Sparkman said he thinks the disclosures in them, particularly what he called "side remarks" by the principals, might have a "disturbing effect on international relations."

DULLES SAID he sees no trouble arising out of publication of the Yalta papers. He said the documents were published in the normal course of proceedings of the State Department which periodically published records of diplomatic events.

He said all the essential facts of the Yalta conference were already known through the books of Prime Minister Churchill and former U. S. State Secretaries Byr

BRING A FRIEND TO CHURCH WITH YOU

'Atonement' Topic Of Sunday Sermon For Presbyterians

Continuing the Lenten theme, worship at the Presbyterian Church will be centered around the thought of The Atonement. The English word means "at-one-ment," that is, "a being at one with God."

The Old Testament idea was that uncleanness and moral trespass must be "covered" so as not to disturb the free relationship between God and His people. The Rev. Donald Mitchell will disclose the true Christian understanding in the sermon, "The Day of Atonement." He will read from the Book of Leviticus, the 16th chapter.

"All mankind is estranged from God the Holy One, by our sins or trespasses. The Atonement, as accomplished by Jesus Christ for us, is the re-establishing of our harmony and fellowship with God through the blood of His own self sacrifice. It is God's gracious action through Christ to restore men to relationship of peace with Himself (Rom. 5:1-11). The Atoning Death of Christ reveals to the uttermost, God's changeless love for sinful man and constitutes the strongest possible appeal to abandon our hostility (i.e., our sinfulness), and be reconciled to, or to become "at one" with God (2 Cor. 5:14-20; Col. 1:19-23)."

The choir will sing Guion's anthem, "Prayer," Mrs. Clark Will directing. Lenten hymns will be used throughout, including: "Crown Him With Many Crowns," "Be Thou My Vision" and "Beneath the Cross of Jesus".

At the organ, Mrs. Theodore L. Huston will play: Stoughton's "By The Waters of Babylon"; "La Fontaine," by Fletcher; and a Welsh hymn, "Once To Every Man and Nation".

The annual One Great Hour of Sharing will be observed during the worship.

In the afternoon, catechism class will meet at the regular hour to discuss the lesson theme: "Sin, Confession, and Salvation". The Elders of the church will conduct a review with the class. They will meet in the session room at 3 p. m.

Bible Words To Live By

An amazing suggestion for daily living comes from Paul's letter to the Ephesians:

EPHESIANS 3:20-21 "Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen."

"In the church" poor, weak, sinful men and women and children are privileged to add to the glory of God. By means of the power which has come into the world through Jesus Christ, people in the church may do at least one thing which produces added glory for God.

By telling and retelling the wonders God has done in their own lives ordinary people have a part in increasing His earthly glory, which is His reputation among men as "the One who answers prayer."

Paul suggests that by "asking and thinking" yet more things for God to do, believers may go on continually adding to His glory on earth! By enlarging their faith and by "dreaming up" things which God may do, people in the church may actually open the way for His wonderful power to do more and more marvelous things in our common human life. Thus believers in God may add to His glory!

Dr. James L. Gailey Jr., Columbia Theological Seminary (Presbyterian, U.S.) Decatur, Ga.

IS IT LATER THAN YOU THINK ?

Right now your heart is ticking off the seconds of a lifetime!

Without your willing it to do so, it is pumping life through your veins at an approximate rate of 72 beats a minute. In one year it will have pulsed close to 38 million times—if all goes well.

But suppose your heart suddenly stops tomorrow—or next week—or, at the latest, next month. What then?

Someone, somehow, will help your family pick up the pieces and resume a life of sorts. But only you can guide the destination of your soul.

Let your pastor and your church show you the Way. Look to the future!

It may be later than you think.

BRING A FRIEND TO CHURCH WITH YOU

'Atonement' Topic Of Sunday Sermon For Presbyterians

Continuing the Lenten theme, worship at the Presbyterian Church will be centered around the thought of The Atonement. The English word means "at-one-ment," that is, "a being at one with God."

The Old Testament idea was that uncleanness and moral trespass must be "covered" so as not to disturb the free relationship between God and His people. The Rev. Donald Mitchell will disclose the true Christian understanding in the sermon, "The Day of Atonement". He will read from the Book of Leviticus, the 16th chapter.

"All mankind is estranged from God the Holy One, by our sins or trespasses. The Atonement, as accomplished by Jesus Christ for us, is the re-establishing of our harmony and fellowship with God through the blood of His own self sacrifice. It is God's gracious action through Christ to restore men to relationship of peace with Himself (Rm.5:1-11) The Atoning Death of Christ reveals to the uttermost, God's changeless love for sinful man and constitutes the strongest possible appeal to abandon our hostility (i.e., our sinfulness), and be reconciled to, or to become "at one" with God (2 Cor. 5:14-20; Col. 1:19-23)."

The choir will sing Guion's anthem, "Prayer", Mrs. Clark will directing. Lenten hymns will be used throughout, including: "Crown Him With Many Crowns", "Be Thou My Vision" and "Beneath the Cross of Jesus".

At the organ, Mrs. Theodore L. Huston will play: Stoughton's "By The Waters of Babylon"; "La Fontaine", by Fletcher; and a Welsh hymn, "Once To Every Man and Nation".

The annual One Great Hour of Sharing will be observed during the worship.

In the afternoon, catechism class will meet at the regular hour to discuss the lesson theme: "Sin, Confession, and Salvation". The Elders of the church will conduct a review with the class. They will meet in the session room at 3 p. m.

Bible Words To Live By

An amazing suggestion for daily living comes from Paul's letter to the Ephesians:

EPHESIANS 3:20-21 "Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen."

"In the church" poor, weak, sinful men and women and children are privileged to add to the glory of God. By means of the power which has come into the world through Jesus Christ, people in the church may do at least one thing which produces added glory for God.

By telling and retelling the wonders God has done in their own lives ordinary people have apart in increasing His earthly glory, which is His reputation among men as "the One who answers prayer."

Paul suggests that by "asking and thinking" yet more things for God to do, believers may go on continually adding to His glory on earth! By enlarging their faith and by "dreaming up" things which God may do, people in the church may actually open the way for His wonderful power to do more and more marvelous things in our common human life. Thus believers in God may add to His glory!

LIVE TO BE 100

DAWN OF THE next century will see expectancy averaging 100 years, according to Dr. J. M. Amberson, whose service in the navy has taken him to many parts of the world.

This prediction is "on a worldwide basis, including peoples who have been backward in comparison to the more enlightened countries such as the United States. Health science is bringing these countries toward a par with others, while improved hygiene and public sanitation is removing many of the causes of sickness and death.

In the USA the life average has risen from 30 to 69 years in the past 50 years, and is still increasing. Dr. Amberson says this has been brought about by progress in medical science which is concentrating on the cause and prevention of disease instead of the cure. Efforts are being made to discover what causes deterioration, cancer, disease of the blood vessels, and the systematic changes which come with advancing years.

At the present time 8.2 per cent of the nation's population is over 65 years of age. The increase in life expectancy predicted by Dr. Amberson will call for an entire new attitude toward the aged, already a social and welfare problem. The old guarantee of three score and ten is being repealed.

Retirement ages of 55, 60 or 65 would seem to be unrealistic when people live many years longer than when such ages for stopping the daily grind were set. Who wants to spend almost half his lifetime in retirement?

WEATHER TURMOIL

APPROACH OF spring is accompanied by meteorological news, ranging from volcanic eruptions in Hawaii to floods in the eastern part of the United States. Interspersed are snow storms and below zero temperatures, summer-like weather in other sections of the country which are not noted for balmy weather at this season, tornadoes and dust storms.

Though the only unusual manifestation of the elements lacking to date is a Caribbean-spawned hurricane blowing its way up the east coast. Weather men point out that what are regarded as unusual weather gyrations can be found in the weather history of nearly every March. Unusual weather is normal in March.

But it will be surprising if some "experts" do not come forth with proof that the weather pattern has been rent asunder by atomic test explosions in Nevada. That what the nation is witnessing is the result of man's ingenuity carried almost to an ultimate extremity.

Many people discover that trying to keep up with their good intentions sets too strenuous a pace.

Civilization is always faced by the task of taking care of some character who thinks he is Napoleon.

These Days

Sooner or later, the American people will have to recognize that that great world, consisting of 20 Republics, which is called Latin America, is very important to them. The Americas ought to have the closest ties, if for no other reason than that they can be united into an economic confederation without employing the sealanes for commerce except in their own waters.

Too often, let us face it, we think of Latin Americans as spiks, poor, ignorant, half-breed peoples. We know little or nothing of their culture because their language is Spanish, except in Brazil where it is Portuguese. We know the rhythm of Cuban music to which we dance, but we do not recognize that some of the best music written on the American continents comes from these countries.

We think of the Mexicans as 'wet-backs,' failing to know about the great art that is produced in that country. I could go on listing the cultural values of our Latin American neighbors, but let this suffice to indicate how much we have to learn about what is, and should not be, to us a new world.

It has been estimated that by the year 2000, Latin America may have a population of 600,000,000. That, of course, is for the entire area which, while varied in population, is culturally more homogeneous than our own land and therefore represents a political potential beyond our present conception. The assumption that this whole vast area is to be judged by small revolutions and civil wars in some particular country is again an error that arises from limiting knowledge to a reading of headlines.

In a period when Europe and Asia are marked by drastic and even disastrous political contests, resulting at times in calamitous wars, the Latin American world, in contrast, is remarkably stable. Surely there have been no disturbances in Latin America of the dimensions of the continuing misunderstanding between the French and German peoples or between the Chinese and the Japanese, nor none as senseless.

It was policy during the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations to regard the Latin American countries as little brothers to whom we threw crumbs while we were plying Europe with fatted calves. It did not go too well. The so-called Good Neighbor Policy, wisely conceived by Stanley High and carried out by Nelson Rockefeller, was not an astonishing success because it failed to grasp the character of the Latin Americans. It failed to realize the cultural status of the leadership elements. Besides, it was sidetracked by the 'Europe First' attitude of those Administrations.

President Eisenhower, early in his Administration, sent his brother Milton to tour Latin America. Milton Eisenhower grasped the essentials of our problems in that area and did a remarkable good job, paving the way for closer relations. Subsequently Vice President Nixon was assigned to visit Central American and Caribbean countries and did a rather successful job.

It must be noted that Dr. Milton Eisenhower is the President's closest advisor and that the Vice President, Richard Nixon, is particularly able at the sort of public relations involved in tours to foreign countries. He has a penchant for making himself liked under those circumstances. It is to be expected therefore that

Don't Give Your Baby "Hothouse" Treatment

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ARE you giving your baby the "hothouse" treatment? Are you keeping that "delicate" little tot of yours from the fresh air he needs?

Wrong Theory

So many mothers, and fathers, too, believe they must keep their infants in hot, stuffy rooms to protect them from the cold air outside. They couldn't be more wrong.

If you are one who shares this belief, let me set you straight right now.

Child Needs Fresh Air

Your youngster needs fresh air the year round. It helps his circulation, improves the color of his skin, gives him a better appetite and generally promotes good health.

If he fails to get this fresh air, he is likely to become pale and fretful, perspire a good deal and probably have a poor appetite.

Apt To Catch Cold

Moreover, a baby kept in a very warm room is likely to catch cold when taken outside in cold weather. The abrupt change from extreme heat to outdoor cold is bad for him.

What, then, should you do? Regardless of the weather, your baby's room should have a continual supply of fresh, free-flowing air. The only exception is when he is taking a bath.

Raise the lower sash and lower the upper sash of a window in your baby's room.

Don't let cold air blow directly on your child. To prevent this, place a ventilator in the lower window. Or you can even nail a board at an angle to the sill so that the fresh air will blow upward, replacing the stale air. A cloth pinned over the open lower window also will help keep the air from blowing on the tot.

Depends on Weather

How far should the windows be opened? That, of course, depends on the weather. Don't let the room get too cold. If the weather is chilly, open the window just an inch or two from the top and the bottom.

If it's really cold and blowing outside, keep the baby's windows closed. But leave his door open, and open a window in an adjoining room.

During warm weather, you can open the windows in your youngster's room as wide as you wish.

But whatever the temperature, make sure he gets fresh air. He needs it!

QUESTION AND ANSWER

C. L. A.: What causes hives, and is there a cure for them?

Answer: Hives are usually due to a sensitive skin which reacts either to some food in the diet or to something with which an individual comes in contact.

The only way to bring about a cure of the condition is to have a thorough study made to determine the substance to which the person is sensitive.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

IT WAS almost six before Fred was free to think about home and supper. Saturday nights usually were busy; folks came to town on Saturday, and often enough decided to see the doctor while it was convenient. Convenient to them.

Just as Fred was leaving, his phone rang, and he talked to Ludmilla. As a result, before he went home he stopped at Kyle's. There were several cars in the street—he'd forgotten about Theo. But he went in anyway, conscious of his wrinkled clothes, his tired face-muscles.

The wide hall smelled sickeningly of flowers. Linda was nowhere about. A strange woman came to him, said she was a cousin of Theo's. She would have led him into the darkened room where Theo lay, but Fred shook his head. "I'm Dr. Beier. If I could, I would like to see Mrs. Kyle."

"I'll see." Frank came then, and led the doctor to the small room at the end of the hall. Linda came in, her face pale but serene, her hand-clasp steady. "I find I'm not able to talk to people," she confessed to Fred. "I'm hiding."

He patted her hand. "I don't blame you. I came to see how the baby was doing." Her face lit up. "Oh, he's fine," she cried. "Come see—d'you mind the back stairs?"

"Not nearly as much as I would the front ones."

Almost gayly, she led him through the back hall and up the somewhat narrow stairs, then along the upper hall to her own bedroom. The infant lay in a ruffled bassinet, his head pillowed upon his doubled fist. He was indeed "fine." The red, raw look of birth had faded, his head bones had settled into place.

"Why, he's pretty!" said Fred. "Yes! I think it's being loved, Fred."

Fred looked at her, his blue eyes shining, and she dropped her own eyes to the baby. "Linda—" he said helplessly.

"It's been such a help, Fred!" she said tensely. "I've so loved having him to think about, to plan for. Otherwise—" She made a gesture which amply conveyed her despair had she not been so fully occupied with a week-old infant. "I think our little Dickie there saved my life and reason." She laughed shakily. "Mr. Nienaber has been in to see him every day, Fred. At first, he looked scared to death of this house; now he walks in as if he had a right to be here. He says your mother—"

"Yes, my mother has been laying down the law to him. She went out there Thursday and took over. I didn't have the time to do all the talking that was needed to set him right on his position at Godfrey's and in America. But my mother—"

Linda laughed softly, and tucked the pale yellow blanket more closely about the sleeping baby.

"I talked to my mother by phone before I came here, Linda. Mamma will have to go back to her school tomorrow. She tells me that there is a woman who will come and keep house for Nienaber."

"And take the baby?" Fearfully, she lifted her dark eyes to his face.

"It would be bad, Linda, if you grew so fond of Dickie that you could not give him up when the mother came home."

She nodded. "I know. I want her to get well, Fred!"

"Of course you do. And, of course, we must think of Richard. It will be better for him to have the baby at home. I'd count on you to watch things out there. And some time, Linda, you should get another child. Or several—"

"Yes," she said in a despondent way. "I wouldn't bring one here while Theo— Besides, he didn't want an adopted child. But now—Mirandy says a woman can't adopt a child unless there is a father in the home. She's tried."

Fred threw out his hands in a most expressive gesture. "They surely refused at first sight of Mirandy!" he growled.

"Why, Fred!" Linda was smiling. "That's the first catty thing I ever heard you say!"

"I am provoked at Mirandy," he confessed. "How did you happen to talk to her? I thought you weren't seeing people."

"She pushed in. I can't stop Mirandy."

"Just as you could not stop me?" With a sudden swift and lovely gesture, she put her fingers upon his hand. "Oh, Fred! There are so many, many things I could say to you."

"So many that you need not say," he answered her softly. She turned away from him, went to the window and looked out upon the blowing trees. "When will you take the baby?" she asked after a bit, her voice muffled.

"Why— you may take him out yourself when you wish. After the funeral. See that he is well established. My mother has opened the upstairs of Clancy's house, and do you know whom she has found for housekeeper? Mirandy's cook!"

Linda whirled, staring. Then she began to laugh. Fred joining her. "Hush," she said, remembering.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

Editor's Note: Every Saturday, Mr. Tucker answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent to him at 7008 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON — "Does our foreign policy," asks H.C.B., of Santa Cruz, Calif., "enable the Kremlin bureaucracy to maintain power on the ground that Russia is surrounded by hostile forces that contemplate an attack on the U.S.S.R., and a defeat that would bring a total loss of all their gains since the 1917 revolution? Don't you think that, if the workers and peasants were reasonably assured of no war for 10 or 20 years, they would stage a revolt to establish real freedom and democracy?"

Answer: Sometimes, I think that we Americans, including the White House, State Department and Pentagon, fail to make any attempt to grasp the Russian viewpoint in the cold war. Granted that their attitude and actions since World War II have been hostile and abominable, it is a mistake for us not to try to understand their viewpoint.

Remember that Russia has suffered two of the most calamitous invasions in military history—Napoleon's and Hitler's. Finally, she is a country seeking to achieve a modern economy overnight, whereas it took the United States 100 years to reach our state of civilization and progress.

President Eisenhower and his predecessors have made repeated earnest desires for peace. I do not know whether the Kremlin really believes that we are warmongers, or whether they resort to this kind of propaganda in order to keep themselves in power, to cover up their failures to improve the lot of their people, and to command sacrifices for Communist conquest of the capitalistic countries.

I don't think that the ordinary Russian, the workers and peasants, are unfriendly to us. Every bit of worthwhile evidence suggests the contrary. But no matter how they feel, it is virtually impossible for them to stage a revolt in such a police state.

Only the government and part forces have arms. There is a Red spy in every block or family. Bare hands and bricks are no match for tanks, machine-guns, mortars, planes, etc.

BLUNDERS—I do think, however, that we should make a greater effort to drive a wedge between the Russian people and their masters, between the Army and the party, between the workers and farmers and their Simon Legrees at Moscow.

I believe it was a mistake to refuse to extend the visa of the Russia clergyman, which led to the expulsion of Father Bissonnette. It was also a blunder to bar the mailing of Pravda and Izvestia to subscribers in this country. The Kremlin capitalizes on such shortsightedness.

If we can convince 200 million Russians of our friendship and sympathy, they may not be so willing to fight and die for Khrushchev, Bulganin, Zhukov & Co., in any World War III.

SUPERCARRIERS — "Do you think," inquires G. F., of Richmond, Va., "that Navy supercarriers are such a valuable and powerful weapon as to be worth $200 million each?"

Answer: I am no expert on this subject, and can report only what qualified military men tell me. Several years ago, while on a cruise aboard the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, I questioned the value of huge carriers on the ground they were so subject to enemy air and underwater attack.

The ship's captain, although obviously prejudiced, replied that a stationary airfield on land was far more vulnerable than a swift-moving vessel, with its own planes and a screen of anti-aircraft destroyers, mine sweepers, cruisers, etc. A supercarrier, according to this viewpoint, can prow the North Atlantic or the Mediterranean, and pump atomic bombs into Russia's cities, rail system, industrial centers and oil wells.

Anyway, all but a few of the military experts have approved the present program for building the Forrestal type of battlewagon.

LIVE TO BE 100

DAWN OF THE next century will see expectancy averaging 100 years, according to Dr. J. M. Amberson, whose service in the navy has taken him to many parts of the world.

This prediction is on a worldwide basis, including peoples who have been backward in comparison to the more enlightened countries such as the United States. Health science is bringing these countries toward a par with others, while improved hygiene and public sanitation is removing many of the causes of sickness and death.

In the USA the life average has risen from 30 to 69 years in the past 50 years, and is still increasing. Dr. Amberson says this has been brought about by progress in medical science which is concentrating on the cause and prevention of disease instead of the cure. Efforts are being made to discover what causes deterioration, cancer, disease of the blood vessels, and the systematic changes which come with advancing years.

At the present time 8.2 per cent of the nation's population is over 65 years of age. The increase in life expectancy predicted by Dr. Amberson will call for an entire new attitude toward the aged, already a social and welfare problem. The old guarantee of three score and ten is being repealed.

Retirement ages of 55, 60 or 65 would seem to be unrealistic when people live many years longer than when such ages for stopping the daily grind were set. Who wants to spend almost half his lifetime in retirement?

QUESTION AND ANSWER

C. L. A.: What causes hives, and is there a cure for them?

Answer: Hives are usually due to a sensitive skin which reacts either to some food in the diet or to something with which an individual comes in contact.

The only way to bring about a cure of the condition is to have a thorough study made to determine the substance to which the person is sensitive.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

IT WAS almost six before Fred was free to think about home and supper. Saturday nights usually were busy; folks came to town on Saturday, and often enough decided to see the doctor while it was convenient. Convenient to them.

Just as Fred was leaving, his phone rang, and he talked to Linda. As a result, before he went home he stopped at Kyle's. There were several cars in the street—he'd forgotten about Theo. But he went in anyway, conscious of his wrinkled clothes, his tired face-muscles.

The wide hall smelled sickeningly of flowers. Linda was nowhere about. A strange woman came to him, said she was a cousin of Theo's. She would have led him into the darkened room where Theo lay, but Fred shook his head. "I'm Dr. Beier. If I could, I would like to see Mrs. Kyle."

"I'll see."

Frank came then, and led the doctor to the small room at the end of the hall. Linda came in, her face pale but serene, her hand-clasp steady. "I find I'm not able to talk to people," she confessed to Fred. "I'm hiding!"

He patted her hand. "I don't blame you. I came to see how the baby was doing."

Her face lit up. "Oh, he's fine," she cried. "Come see—d'you mind the back stairs?"

"Not nearly as much as I would the front ones."

Almost gayly, she led him through the back hall and up the somewhat narrow stairs, then along the upper hall to her own bedroom. The infant lay in a ruffled bassinet, his head pillowed upon his doubled fist. He was indeed "fine." The red, raw look of birth had faded, his head bones had settled into place—

"Why, he's pretty!" said Fred. "Yes! I think it's being loved, Fred."

Fred looked at her, his blue eyes shining, and she dropped her own eyes to the baby. "Linda—" he said helplessly.

"It's been such a help, Fred!" she said tensely. "I've so loved having him to think about, to plan for. Otherwise—" She made a gesture which amply conveyed her despair had she not been so fully occupied with a week-old infant. "I think our little Dickie there saved my life and reason." She laughed shakily. "Mr. Nienaber has been in to see him every day, Fred. At first, he looked scared to death of this house; now he walks in as if he had a right to be here. He says your mother—"

"Hush," she said, remembering

"Yes, my mother has been laying down the law to him. She went out there Thursday and took over. I didn't have the time to do all the talking that was needed to set him right on his position at Godfrey's and in America. But my mother—"

Linda laughed softly, and tucked the pale yellow blanket more closely about the sleeping baby.

"I talked to my mother by phone before I came here, Linda. Mamma will have to go back to her school tomorrow. She tells me that there is a woman who will come and keep house for Nienaber."

"And take the baby?" Fearsfully, she lifted her dark eyes to his face. "It would be bad, Linda, if you grew so fond of Dickie that you could not give him up when the mother came home."

She nodded. "I know. I want her to get well, Fred!"

"Of course you do. And, of course, we must think of Richard. It will be better for him to have the baby at home. I'd count on you to watch things out there. And some time, Linda, you should get another child. Or several—"

"Yes," she said in a dispirited way. "I wouldn't bring one here while Theo— Besides, he didn't want an adopted child. But now— Mirandy says a woman can't adopt a child unless there is a father in the home. She's tried."

Fred threw out his hands in a most expressive gesture. "They surely refused at first sight of Mirandy!" he growled.

"Why, Fred!" Linda was smiling. "That's the first catty thing I ever heard you say!"

"I am provoked at Mirandy," he confessed. "How did you happen to talk to her? I thought you weren't seeing people."

"She pushed in. I can't stop Mirandy."

"Just as you could not stop me?" With a sudden swift and lovely gesture, she put her fingers upon his hand. "Oh, Fred! There are so many, many things I could say to you."

"So many that you need not say," he answered her softly.

She turned away from him, went to the window and looked out upon the blowing trees. "When will you take the baby?" she asked after a bit, her voice muffled.

"Why—you may take him out yourself when you wish. After the funeral. See that he is well established. My mother has opened the upstairs of Clancy's house, and do you know whom she has found for housekeeper? Mirandy's cook!"

Linda whirled, staring. Then she began to laugh, Fred joining her. "Hush," she said, remembering news behind

Editor's Note: Every Saturday, Mr. Tucker answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent to him at 7008 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON — "Does our foreign policy," asks H.C.B., of Santa Cruz, Calif., "enable the Kremlin bureaucracy to maintain power on the ground that Russia is surrounded by hostile forces that contemplate an attack on the U.S.S.R., and a defeat that would bring a total loss of all their gains since the 1917 revolution? Don't you think that, if the workers and peasants were reasonably assured of no war for 10 or 20 years, they would stage a revolt to establish real freedom and democracy?"

Answer: Sometimes, I think that we Americans, including the White House, State Department and Pentagon, fail to make any attempt to grasp the Russian viewpoint in the cold war. Granted that their attitude and actions since World War II have been hostile and abominable, it is a mistake for us not to try to understand their viewpoint.

Remember that Russia has suffered two of the most calamitous invasions in military history—Napoleon's and Hitler's. Finally, she is a country seeking to achieve a modern economy overnight, whereas it took the United States 100 years to reach our state of civilization and progress.

President Eisenhower and his predecessors have made repeated earnest desires for peace. I do not know whether the Kremlin really believes that we are warmongers, or whether they resort to this kind of propaganda in order to keep themselves in power, to cover up their failures to improve the lot of their people, and to command sacrifices for Communist conquest of the capitalistic countries.

I don't think that the ordinary Russian, the workers and peasants, are unfriendly to us. Every bit of worthwhile evidence suggests the contrary. But no matter how they feel, it is virtually impossible for them to stage a revolt in such a police state, only the government and part forces have arms. There is a Red spy in every block or family. Bare hands and bricks are no match for tanks, machine-guns, mortars, planes, etc.

BLUNDERS—I do think, however, that we should make a greater effort to drive a wedge between the Russian people and their masters, between the Army and the party, between the workers and farmers and their Simon Legrees at Moscow.

I believe it was a mistake to refuse to extend the visa of the Russia clergyman, which led to the expulsion of Father Bissonette. It was also a blunder to bar the mailing of Pravda and Izvestia to subscribers in this country. The Kremlin capitalizes on such shortsightedness.

If we can convince 200 million Russians of our friendship and sympathy, they may not be so willing to fight and die for Khrushchev, Bulganin, Zhukov & Co., in any World War III.

SUPERCARRIERS — "Do you think," inquires G. F., of Richmond, Va., "that Navy supercarriers are such a valuable and powerful weapon as to be worth $200 million each?"

Answer: I am no expert on this subject, and can report only what qualified military men tell me. Several years ago, while on a cruise aboard the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, I questioned the value of huge carriers on the ground they were so subject to enemy air and underwater attack.

The ship's captain, although obviously prejudiced, replied that a stationary afloat on land was far more vulnerable than a swift-moving vessel, with its own planes and a screen of anti-submarine destroyers, mine sweepers, cruisers, etc. A supercarrier, according to this viewpoint, can prow the North Atlantic or the Mediterranean, and pump atomic bombs into Russia's cities, rail system, industrial centers and oil wells.

Anyway, all but a few of the military experts have approved the present program for building the Forrestal type of battlewag-

Indians Confident In 1955, But Many Problems Exist

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—The Cleveland Indians, from Manager Al Lopez to the kids acting as batboys in spring training, believe they will repeat as American League champions. But the situation has its problems.

Lopez lets it be known that "we're not set like a lot of people think." That has some pleasant aspects since a battle for a starting position doesn't hurt a club. Al also expects the Tribe to be stronger than last year.

But here is the way the problems stack up:

1. How will the holdout of batting champion Bobby Avila be resolved? Lopez says he will have to assume the second baseman won't be in the opening lineup, thus giving Rudy Regalado a shot at the job and Eddie Joost and Sam Dente more opportunity.

2. Will third baseman Al Rosen return to the form that made him one of the league's most feared batters? Still bothering him is the right index finger he jammed last

May which spoiled what might have been his best season.

3. Can Vic Wertz continue playing first base with the improved batting he showed after joining the Indians last year?

4. Will shortstop George Strickland bounce back after an injury-hampered season?

5. Will Herb Score make the grade, as expected, in a starting pitcher's job?

6. How will slugger Ralph Kiner fit into the outfield?

Lopez expressed confidence of affirmative answers in all departments including the Avila situation. And his righthanded "Big Three" in the pitching department look as big as ever.

With Jim Hegan set as the regular catcher, the battle is between Hal Naragon, his understudy last year, and Hank Poiles, up from Indianapolis, for the No. 2 job. The Indians possibly will carry three receivers.

After his great 500 batting in the World Series, Wertz will be a tough man to oust from first base if ailments don't crop up. Veteran Dale Mitchell, switching from the outfield, and rookie Joe Altobelli, who must improve his batting, provide the competition.

As for the shortstop, Lopez asserts, "I'm not worried about Strickland. He is a great fielder and don't forget he hit .285 in 1953, and was out six weeks with a broken jaw last year." George batted only .213 for 1954 and was without a hit in the World Series.

Score's spring training has been slowed by a sprained ankle, but these in the wigwag are sure he'll provide lefthanded strength in the Tribe's front hurling line. Herb fanned 330 batters in 251 innings with Indianapolis to break a half-century old American Assn. record. He was named the league's most valuable player after a 22-5 won-loss mark.

Rosen and Strickland aren't pressed for their positions. The same holds true for Larry Doby in center field. Al Smith undoubtedly will be in the starting outfield but probably will be switched to right with Kiner going to left. This combination probably won't be as strong defensively as last season's unit.

Battling four outfield jobs are veteran Dave Philley, a late signer; Wally Westlake and Dave Pope, plus rookie Rocky Colavito, who showed well at Indianapolis. Regardless of the outcome, a strong bench is again assured.

Added power comes from Kiner, who is working hard and hustling for his job. General Manager Hank Greenberg says that with the slugger joining the club from the Chicago Cubs, the Indians can collect enough home runs for a new American League record.

Mike Garcia of the "Big Three" looks better this spring than last, having reported about 20 pounds lighter. He had a 19-8 record and his 2.64 earned-run average was the loop's best. Bob Lemon posted 23-7 and Early Wynn 23-11.

Count veterans Bob Feller and Art Houtteman as spot starters again with the relief combo of Ray Narleski and Don Mossi expected to improve after their initial season in the majors.

"I think the team will be better than last year," maintains Lopez, "but we probably won't win as many games. You can't count on all the close ones we took in 1954."

2 Top Stars Picked Among Ohio Cagers

COLUMBUS (AP)—Rex Leach of unbeaten Vienna, one of last season's all-Ohio Class B stars, and Jim Thomas of Class A Gallipolis which is no longer in the tournament running, today were voted the state's top high school basketball players for the 1954-55 campaign.

Leach was held to 28 points, his low mark of the season, as Vienna defeated Liberty Twp., 71-53, last night in the Class B semifinals at Kent. It was Vienna's 28th straight conquest, and Leach showed his point total to 1,195 for a 42.6 average.

Thomas, on the second all-Ohio Class A team a year ago, led the division's scorers this season with a 579 total in 20 games to miss a 29 average by a single marker. Gallipolis wound up with a 19-2 record, losing only to top-rated Columbus East before bowing to Greenfield in the Athens district.

Each of the boys was a standout winner in the Associated Press poll of sports writers and coaches. Others making good showings in the annual "pick the star" voting: Class A: George Swank of Mansfield, Curt Gentry of Portsmouth, Frank Wade of Columbus East, Al Choll of Springfield Public, Joe Grier of Toledo Libbey, Larry Crist of Zanesville, Ray George of Bellefontaine, Charles Boykin of Kent Roosevelt and Gary Prahn of Berea.

Jabbo Juggles For Cincinnati

BRADENTOWN, Fla. (AP)—Ray Jablonski is a handy man at the plate but he may be a handicap to the Cincinnati Redlegs because of his antics at third base. Jabbo accounted for two of the Reds' four hits yesterday when they were beaten, 5-2, by the Boston Red Sox. But the third baseman made two errors which led to all five Boston runs.

Jablonski let loose with one of his famous throws 15 feet over first baseman Ted Kluszewski's head in the second inning. This helped set the stage for a three-run homer by shortstop Owen Friend. The American Leaguers' final two runs, both unearned, came in the fifth after the 28-year-old infielder dropped a pop fly.

important to our economy. These imports are likely to increase. They ought to be assured for the future so that our civilization, which is based physically on steel, is never in peril.

These Days

Latin America is in the President's mind and that much will be done in this Administration to overcome the Latin American sense of neglect.

Senator George Malone, an engineer with a vast knowledge of metals, minerals and other raw materials, holds to the thesis that the two American continents can be made self-sufficient in the essentials of our physical civilization. A Committee of the Senate over which he presides has published a number of informed and detailed reports on this subject which seem convincing.

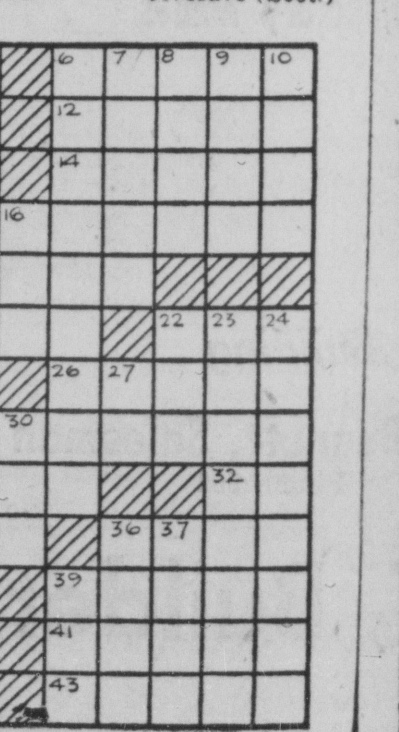

If his conclusions are correct, it would appear to be sound, at this time, when so much of the energy and wealth of the United States is being devoted to the preparation for war and for shortages, that the subject of American continental self-sufficiency be considered with the keenest seriousness.

For instance, the United States is already importing iron ore, copper and bauxite from Latin American countries in quantities that are

Dukes, Dayton Set For Battle

NEW YORK (AP)—Regardless of whether the Duquesne-Dayton final or the last collegiate appearance of Maurice Stokes is the big attraction, at least 16,000 basketball fans are expected to crowd Madison Square Garden tonight for the finals of the national Invitation Basketball Tournament.

The final between the often frustrated Duquesne and Dayton teams will assure one of them its first NIT championship. It's the seventh Invitation tournament for Duquesne and the fourth of Dayton. Each has reached the finals twice before but neither has ever won the tournament.

LaSalle, Frisco To Vie For Crown

KANSAS CITY (AP)—LaSalle's Explorers and the University of San Francisco Dons, each featuring a 14-carat All-America, will meet for the 17th National Collegiate basketball crown tonight. Three-time All-America Tom Gola guided defending champion LaSalle into the final round again, 76-73, over Iowa's strong-finishing Hawkeyes before a capacity crowd of 10,500 in the semis at Municipal Auditorium last night. Bill Russell, San Francisco's 6-10 All-America, was the key player in the Dons' 62-52 victory over Colorado of the Big Seven.

2. Top Stars Picked Among Ohio Cagers

COLUMBUS (AP)—Rex Leach of unbeaten Vienna, one of last season's all - Ohio Class B stars, and Jim Thomas of Class A Gallipolis which is no longer in the tournament running, today were voted the state's top high school basketball players for the 1954-55 campaign.

Leach was held to 28 points, his low mark of the season, as Vienna defeated Liberty Twp., 71-53, last night in the Class B semifinals at Kent. It was Vienna's 28th straight conquest, and Leach shoved his point total to 1,195 for a 42.6 average.

Thomas, on the second all-Ohio Class A team a year ago, led the division's scorers this season with a 579 total in 20 games to miss a 29 average by a single marker. Gallipolis wound up with a 19-2 record, losing only to top-rated Columbus East before bowing to Greenfield in the Athens district.

Each of the boys was a standout winner in the Associated Press poll of sports writers and coaches. Others making good showings in the annual "pick the star" voting: Class A: George Swank of Mansfield, Curt Gentry of Portsmouth, Frank Wade of Columbus East, Al Cohl of Springfield Public, Joe Grier of Toledo Libbey, Larry Crist of Zanesville, Ray George of Bellefontaine, Charles Boykin of Kent Roosevelt and Gary Prahn of Berea.

Class B: Virgil Thompson of Lockland Wayne; Olan Koehler of Ames-Bern; Larry Huston of Savannah, the state scoring leader; Joe Ungvary of Chagrin Falls Orange; Jim Puckett of Middleport; Gary Kesler of Willshire, and Clyde Evans of Rio Grande.

Battling four outfield jobs are veteran Dave Philley, a late signer; Wally Westlake and Dave Pope, plus rookie Rocky Colavito, who showed well at Indianapolis. Regardless of the outcome, a strong bench is again assured.

Added power comes from Kiner, who is working hard and hustling for his job. General Manager Hank Greenberg says that with the slugger joining the club from the Chicago Cubs, the Indians can collect enough home runs for a new American League record.

Mike Garcia of the "Big Three" looks better this spring than last, having reported about 20 pounds lighter. He had a 19-8 record and his 2.64 earned-run average was the low's best. Bob Lemon posted 23-7 and Early Wynn 23-11.

Count veterans Bob Feller and Art Houtteman as spot starters again with the relief combo of Ray Narleski and Don Mossi expected to improve after their initial season in the majors.

"I think the team will be better than last year," maintains Lopez, "but we probably won't win as many games. You can't count on all the close ones we took in 1954."

Sokolsky's These Days

Latin America is in the President's mind and that much will be done in this Administration to overcome the Latin American sense of neglect.

Senator George Malone, an engineer with a vast knowledge of metals, minerals and other raw materials, holds to the thesis that the two American continents can be made self-sufficient in the essentials of our physical civilization. A Committee of the Senate over which he presides has published a number of informed and detailed reports on this subject which seem convincing.

If his conclusions are correct, it would appear to be sound, at this time, when so much of the energy and wealth of the United States is being devoted to the preparation for war and for shortages, that the subject of American continental self-sufficiency be considered with the keenest seriousness.

For instance, the United States is already importing iron ore, copper and bauxite from Latin American countries in quantities that are

Dukes, Dayton Set For Battle

NEW YORK (AP)—Regardless of whether the Duquesne-Dayton final or the last collegiate appearance of Maurice Stokes is the big attraction, at least 16,000 basketball fans are expected to crowd Madison Square Garden tonight for the finals of the national Invitation Basketball Tournament.

The final between the often frustrated Duquesne and Dayton teams will assure one of them its first NIT championship. It's the seventh invitation tournament for Duquesne and the fourth of Dayton. Each has reached the finals twice before but neither has ever won the tournament.

LaSalle, Frisco To Vie For Crown

KANSAS CITY (AP)—LaSalle's Explorers and the University of San Francisco Dons, each featuring a 14-carat All-America, will meet for the 17th National Collegiate basketball crown tonight.

Lesson Seen As Rioting Prisoners Protect Fragile Roses

District Group Saw Way To Assist Hobby

Local Men Set Plan To Give Convicts Valuable Plants

Matching their soft colors against the red glow of angry fires, and standing as delicate symbols of love and contentment amid violence and fear, the roses that grow in the flower beds at Ohio State Penitentiary told an Easter Sunday story that almost went unheeded a few years ago when riots raged through the Columbus prison.

Almost, that is, but not quite. Dr. John B. C. Eckstorm, at that time serving as prison physician and surgeon, happened to notice the lesson seen in the flowers. And later, at a dinner party in Circleville, he passed along the story to local men who decided to do something about it.

Dr. Eckstorm, a former football coach and widely known sports figure, told how the rioting prisoners—throughout their reign of terror behind the high, gray walls—carefully left every single one of the roses untouched. While large sections of the prison were burned, damaged, littered or smeared, not one petal on the roses cared for by the prisoners was knocked from its place!

The story made a big impression on the Circleville men who heard it from Dr. Eckstorm at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Noggle. Through their mutual love of roses, the doctor and the Circleville bank official had become close friends long before.

DR. ECKSTORM was instrumental in starting and fostering the rose garden at the state penitentiary, and "his boys" before long had grown a proud array of approximately 300 roses—all of them grown from slips given to them and rooted in a little greenhouse at the prison. Exhibits from the penitentiary's rose garden soon became a familiar attraction at the Spring Rose Show in Columbus.

And when the rioting began on that Easter Sunday, the men milling around in the prison courtyard stepped carefully around the flower beds. They respected their roses above everything else!

From the dinner gathering at the Noggle home late last year, the next move led to Dr. Walter E. Lammerts, of Livermore, Cal., or-

Trinity Lutheran Church Here Joins In World Wide Appeal

Trinity Lutheran Church here will join on March 20 with other Protestant churches throughout the United States in observing "One Great Hour of Sharing," the united appeal of American Protestantism for relief, rehabilitation and reconstruction in all parts of the world.

More than 10,000 Lutheran congregations cooperating in the National Lutheran Council are joining in the annual appeal with major Protestant and Eastern Orthodox churches in America who seek more than $9,500,000 for 1955 relief programs. Included in this amount is the 1955 goal of Lutheran World Action, totaling $2,962,000.

The Lutheran World Action funds are used for projects in which Lutherans join with other denominations, as well as for projects carried on through the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran World Federation.

Lutheran church bodies participating in these agencies are: the United Lutheran Church in America, Evangelical Lutheran Church, American Lutheran Church, Aug-ustrian Lutheran Church, Lutheran Free Church, Suomi Synod, United Evangelical Lutheran Church and American Evangelical Lutheran Church.

During the last 15 years, the National Lutheran Council distributed cash contributions of nearly $40,000,000 as well as used clothing, food and other relief supplies valued at more than $38,000,000. The 1954 contributions in cash and goods exceeded $11,000,000.

The local church's contribution to Lutheran World Action totals $409.30 for the past year. In addition, Trinity Lutheran Church conducts clothing drives once or twice every year and has contributed thousands of pounds of used clothing, shoes, bedding and other relief goods to Lutheran World Relief, the National Lutheran Council's material aid agency, for distribution to needy people in 28 countries overseas.

All the Lutheran World Action funds have been used for emergency activities of the church at home and in 75 countries abroad. According to the 1955 program, American Lutherans will spend $290,000 of the LWA goal for spiritual services to men and women in the U. S. Armed Forces.

In addition, $750,000 has been allocated for the support of younger churches and missions cut off from their supporting societies in Europe. Included are grants for Tanganyika and other parts of Africa, Indonesia, New Guinea, Syria, Jordan, India, Hong Kong and Japan.

Of the 1955 goal, $865,000 has also been earmarked for inter-church aid and services to refugees in war ravaged countries and behind the Iron Curtain, where they can be reached, as in East Germany.

These funds will be administered through Lutheran World Service of the Lutheran World Federation, in which Lutherans of 26 countries cooperate.

In addition, the Lutherans plan to use $150,000 out of the 1955 LWA goal to support the resettlement of refugees under the United States Refugee Relief Act. Under the previous U. S. Displaced Persons Act, the National Lutheran Council resettled more than 37,000 refugees in this country.

A grant of $325,000 to Lutheran World Relief will be used by that agency to cover the cost of processing and distributing used clothing contributed by American Lutherans, and also to distribute surplus commodities received from the U. S. Government. Vast amounts of powdered milk, butter, cheese, cotton seed oil, and shortening have been shipped by LWR under the government's program of providing these commodities to voluntary agencies.

Other grants from LWA 1955 goal will be used for cooperation with other Protestant denominations, to support the American Bible Society, for a Lutheran ministry to European immigrants in Latin America and for a number of other projects.

Lesson Seen As Rioting Prisoners Protect Fragile Roses

District Group Saw Way To Assist Hobby

Local Men Set Plan To Give Convicts Valuable Plants

Matching their soft colors against the red glow of angry fires, and standing as delicate symbols of love and contentment amid violence and fear, the roses that grow in the flower beds at Ohio State Penitentiary told an Easter Sunday story that almost went unheeded a few years ago when riots raged through the Columbus prison.

Almost, that is, but not quite. Dr. John B. C. Eckstorm, at that time serving as prison physician and surgeon, happened to notice the lesson seen in the flowers. And later, at a dinner party in Circleville, he passed along the story to local men who decided to do something about it.

Dr. Eckstorm, a former football coach and widely known sports figure, told how the rioting prisoners—throughout their reign of terror behind the high, gray walls—carefully left every single one of the roses untouched! While large sections of the prison were burned, damaged, littered or smeared, not one petal on the roses cared for by the prisoners was knocked from its place!

The story made a big impression on the Circleville men who heard it from Dr. Eckstorm at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Noggle. Through their mutual love of roses, the doctor and the Circleville bank official had become close friends long before.

DR. ECKSTORM was instrumental in starting and fostering the rose garden at the state penitentiary, and "his boys" before long had grown a proud array of approximately 300 roses—all of them grown from slips given to them and rooted in a little greenhouse at the prison. Exhibits from the penitentiary's rose garden soon became a familiar attraction at the Spring Rose Show in Columbus.

And when the rioting began on that Easter Sunday, the men milling around in the prison courtyard stepped carefully around the flower beds. They respected their roses above everything else!

From the dinner gathering at the Noggle home late last year, the next move led to Dr. Walter E. Lammerts, of Livermore, Cal., or-

Trinity Lutheran Church Here Joins In World Wide Appeal

Trinity Lutheran Church here will join on March 20 with other Protestant churches throughout the United States in observing "One Great Hour of Sharing", the united appeal of American Protestantism for relief, rehabilitation and reconstruction in all parts of the world.

More than 10,000 Lutheran congregations cooperating in the National Lutheran Council are joining in the annual appeal with major Protestant and Eastern Orthodox churches in America who seek more than $9,500,000 for 1955 relief programs. Included in this amount is the 1955 goal of Lutheran World Action, totaling $2,962,000.

The Lutheran World Action funds are used for projects in which Lutherans join with other denominations, as well as for projects carried on through the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran World Federation.

Lutheran church bodies participating in these agencies are: the United Lutheran Church in America, Evangelical Lutheran Church, American Lutheran Church, August-ignator of the famed Queen Elizabeth and many other world-renowned roses. As a personal friend of the Circleville bank official, he readily agreed to do all he could to send the prisoners in Columbus—not just slips for roses—but the original plants themselves, ready for testing and scoring in accordance with the strict rules that guide competition among the world's finest roses.

Best of all, Dr. Lammerts outlined how the plan may be expanded to other rose originators, and other prisons throughout the nation. Following through on his suggestions, Noggle has already started to circulate queries to other leading figures among America's best known rose growers.

Dr. Eckstorm, who has promised to have the highly valued rose plants placed in a special garden, said:

"It is one of the grandest things that ever happened at Ohio Penitentiary."

BUT THANKS to the doctor himself, and the dinner group at Circleville, the story goes far beyond that.

It reaches at a dim goal which, eventually, can bring about a better understanding in all of the nation's prison psychology. And the clue for the search is the strange way in which men will respect a fragile rose when all the rest of their world seems crumbling and worthless around them.

tana Lutheran Church, Lutheran Free Church, Suomi Synod, United Evangelical Lutheran Church and American Evangelical Lutheran Church.

During the last 15 years, the National Lutheran Council distributed cash contributions of nearly $40,000,000 as well as used clothing, food and other relief supplies valued at more than $38,000,000. The 1954 contributions in cash and good exceeded $11,000,000.

The local church's contribution to Lutheran World Action totals $409.30 for the past year. In addition, Trinity Lutheran Church conducts clothing drives once or twice every year and has contributed thousands of pounds of used clothing, shoes, bedding and other relief goods to Lutheran World Relief, the National Lutheran Council's material aid agency, for distribution to needy people in 28 countries overseas.

All the Lutheran World Action funds have been used for emergency activities of the church at home and in 75 countries abroad. According to the 1955 program, American Lutherans will spend $290,000 of the LWA goal for spiritual services to men and women in the U. S. Armed Forces.

In addition, $750,000 has been allocated for the support of younger churches and missions cut off from their supporting societies in Europe. Included are grants for Tanganyika and other parts of Africa, Indonesia, New Guinea, Syria, Jordan, India, Hong Kong and Japan.

Of the 1955 goal, $865,000 has also been earmarked for inter-church aid and services to refugees in war ravaged countries and behind the Iron Curtain, where they can be reached, as in East Germany. These funds will be administered through Lutheran World Service of the Lutheran World Federation, in which Lutherans of 26 countries cooperate.

In addition, the Lutherans plan to use $150,000 out of the 1955 LWA goal to support the resettlement of refugees under the United States Refugee Relief Act. Under the previous U. S. Displaced Persons Act, the National Lutheran Council resettled more than 37,000 refugees in this country.

A grant of $325,000 to Lutheran World Relief will be used by that agency to cover the cost of processing and distributing used clothing contributed by American Lutherans, and also to distribute surplus commodities received from the U. S. Government. Vast amounts of powdered milk, butter, cheese, cotton seed oil, and shortening have been shipped by LWR under the government's program of providing these commodities to voluntary agencies.

Other grants from LWA 1955 goal will be used for cooperation with other Protestant denominations, to support the American Bible Society, for a Lutheran ministry to European immigrants in Latin America and for a number of other projects.
